A Horrible Story.

The following singular story appeared in the last number of the New York Whig Review, and is, we believe, from the pen of Mr. Poe. It is one which every body will read—perhaps some will believe—many will have doubts that they cannot well understand or explain. As will be seen in the thread of the article, it is an account of the very strange demise of "M. Valdemar."

FACTS IN THE CASE OF M. VALDEMAR.

An article of ours, thus entitled, was published in the last number of Mr. Colton's "American Review," and has given rise to some discussion—especially in regard to the truth or falsity of the statements made. It does not become us, of course to offer one word on the point at issue.—We have been requested to re-print the article, and do so with pleasure. We leave it to speak for itself. We may observe, however, that there are a certain class of people who pride themselves upon doubt, as a profession.—Ed B. J.

Of course I shall not pretend to consider it any matter for wonder, that the extraordinary case of M. Valdemar has excited discussion. It would have been a miracle had it not—especially under the circumstances. Through the desire of all parties concerned, to keep the affair from the public, or at least for the present, or until we had further opportunities for investigation—through our endeavors to effect this—a garbled or exaggerated account made its way into society, and became the source of many unpleasant misrepresentations, and, very naturally, of a great deal of disbelief.

It is now rendered necessary that I give the facts—as far as I comprehend them myself. They are, succinctly these:

My attention, for the last three years, had been repeatedly drawn to the subject of Mesmerism; and, about nine months ago, it occurred to me quite suddenly, that in the series of experiments made hitherto, there had been a very remarkable and most unaccountable omission:—no person had as yet been mesmerized in articulo mortis. It remained to be seen, first, whether, in such condition, there existed in the patient any susceptibility to the magnetic influence; secondly, whether, if any existed, it was impaired or increased by the condition; thirdly, to what extent, or for how long a period, incroachments of death might be arrested, by the process. There were other points to be ascertained, but these most excited my curiosity—the last is especial from the immensely important character of its consequences.

In looking around me for some subject by whose means I might test these particulars, I was brought to think of my friend, M. Ernest Valdemar, the well-known compiler of the "Bibliotheca Forensica," and author (under the nom de plume of Issachar Marx,) of the Polish versions of "Wallenstein" and "Gargantua." M. Valdemar, who has resided principally at Harlem, N. Y., since the year 1839, is, (or was) particularly noticeable for the extreme spareness of his person—his lower limbs much resembling those of John Randolph, and, also, for the whiteness of his whiskers, in violent contrast to the blackness of his hair—the latter, in consequence, being very generally mistaken for a wig. His temperament was markedly nervous, and rendered him a good subject for mesmeric experiment. On two or three occasions I had put him to sleep with little difficulty, but was disappointed in other results which his peculiar constitution had naturally led me to anticipate. His will was at no period positively, or thoroughly, under my control, and in regard to clairvoyance, I could accomplish with him nothing to be relied upon. I always attributed my failure at these points to the disordered state of his health. For some months previous to my becoming acquainted with him, his physicians had declared him in a confirmed phthisis. It was his custom, indeed, to speak calmly of his approaching dissolution, as of a matter neither to be avoided nor regretted.

When the ideas to which I have alluded first occurred to me, it was of course very natural that I should think of M. Valdemar. I knew the steady philosophy of the man too well to apprehend any scruples from him; and he had no relatives in America who would be likely to interfere. I spoke to him frankly upon the subject; and, to my surprise, his interest seemed vividly excited. I say to my surprise; for, although he had always yielded his person freely to my experiments, he had never before given me any tokens of sympathy with what I did. His disease was of that character which would admit of exact calculation in respect to the epoch of its termination in death and it was finally arranged between us that he would send for me about twenty four hours before the period announced by his physicians as that of his decease.

It is now rather more than seven months since I received, from Mr. Valdemar himself the subjoined note:

My Dear P——

You may as well come now. D—— and F—— are agreed that I cannot hold out beyond to-morrow midnight; and I think they have hit the time very nearly.
VALDEMAR.

I received this note within half of an hour after it was written, and in fifteen minutes more I was in the dying man's chamber. I had not seen him for ten days, and was appalled at the fearful alteration which the brief interval had wrought in him. His face wore a leaden hue; the eyes were utterly lustreless; and the emaciation was so extreme that the skin had been broken through by cheek bones. His expectoration was excessive. The pulse was barely perceptible, He retained nevertheless. in a very remarkable manner, both his mental power and a certain degree of physical strength. He spoke with distinctness—took some palliative medicines without aid—and when I entered the room, was occupied in pencilling memoranda in a pocket book. He was propped up in bed by pillows. Doctors D—— and F—— were in attendance.

After pressing Valdemar's hand, I took these gentlemen aside, and obtained from them a minute account of the patient's condition. The left lung had been for eighteen months in a semi-osseous or cartilaginous state, and was, of course, entirely useless for all purposes of vitality. The right, in its upper portion, was also partially, if not thoroughly, ossified, while the lower region was merely a mass of purulent tubercles; running one into another. Several extensive perforations existed, and, at one point, permanent adhesion to the ribs had taken place. These appearances in the right lobe were of comparatively recent date. The ossification had proceeded with very unusual rapidity; no sign of it had been discovered a month before, and the adhesion had only been observed during the three previous days. Independently of the phthisis, the patient was suspected of aneurism of the aorta; but on this point the osseous symptoms rendered an exact diagnosis impossible. It was the opinion of both physicians that M. Valdemar, would die about midnight on the morrow (Sunday.) It was then seven o'clock on Saturday evening.

On quitting the invalid's bed-side to hold conversation with myself, Doctors D—— and F—— had bidden him a final farewell. It had not been their intention to return, but, at my request, they agreed to look in upon the patient about ten the next night.

When they had gone, I spoke freely with M. Valdemar on the subject of his approaching dissolution, as well as, more particularly, of the experiment proposed. He still professed himself quite willing and anxious to have it made, and urged me to commence it at once. A male and a female nurse were in attendance; but I did not feel myself at liberty to engage in a task of this character with no more reliable witnesses than these people, in case of sudden accident might prove. I therefore postponed operations until about eight the next night, when the arrival of medical students with whom I had some acquaintances, (Mr. Theodore L——L. relieved me from further embarrassment. It had been my design, originally, to wait for the physicians; but I was induced to proceed, first, by the urgent entreaties of M. Valdemar, and secondly, by my conviction that I had not a moment to lose, as he was evidently sinking fast.

Mr. L——l was so kind as to accede to my desire that he would take notes of all that occurred; and it is from his memoranda that what I now have to relate is for the most part either condensed or copied verbatim.

It wanted about five minutes of eight when, taking the patient's hand, I begged him to state, as distinctly as he could, to Mr. L——l, whether he (Mr. Valdemar) was entirely willing that I should make the experiment of mesmerizing him in his then condition.

He replied feebly, yet quite audibly, "Yes, I wish to be mesmerized"—adding immediately afterwards, "I fear you have deferred it too long."

While he spoke thus, I commenced the passes which I had already found most effectual in subduing him. He was evidently influenced with the first lateral stroke of my hand across his forehead; but although I exerted all my powers, no farther perceptible effect was induced until some minutes after ten o'clock, when Doctors D—— and F—— called, according to appointment. I explained to them, in a few words, what I designed, and as they opposed no objection, saying that the patient was already in the death agony, I proceeded without hesitation—exchanging, however, the lateral passes for downward ones, and directing my gaze entirely into the right eye of the sufferer.

By this time his pulse was imperceptible and his breathing was stentorous, and at intervals of half a minute.

This condition was nearly unaltered for a quarter of an hour. At the expiration of this period, however, a natural although a very deep sigh escaped the bosom of the dying man, and the stetorous breathing ceased—that is to say, its stentorous ness was no longer apparent; the intervals were undiminished. The patient's extremities were of an icy coldness.

At five minutes before eleven I perceived unequivocal signs of the mesmeric influence. The glassy roll of the eye was changed for that expression of uneasy inward examination which is never seen except in cases of sleep-waking, and which it is quite impossible to mistake. With a few rapid lateral passes I made the lips quiver, as in incipient sleep, and with a few more I closed them altogether. I was not satisfied, however, with this, but continued the manipulations vigorously, and with the fullest exertion of the will, until I had completely stiffened the limbs of the slumbers, after placing them in a seemingly easy position.—The legs were at full length; the arms were nearly elevated so, and reposed on the bed at a moderate distance from the loins. The head was very slightly elevated.

When I had accomplished this, it was fully midnight, and I requested the gentlemen present to examine M. Valdemar's condition. After a few experiments, they admitted him to be in an unusually perfect state of mesmeric trance. The curiosity of both the physicians was greatly excited. Dr. D—— resolved at once to remain with the patient all night, while Dr. F—— took leave with a promise to return at day-break, Mr. L——l and the nurses remained.

We left M. Valdemar entirely undisturbed until about three o'clock in the morning, when I approached him and found him in precisely the same condition as when Dr. F—— went away—that is to say, he lay in the same position; the breathing was gentle (scarcely noticeable, unless through the application of a mirror to the lips); the eyes were closed naturally; and the limbs were as rigid and cold as marble. Still, the general appearance was certainly not that of death.

As I approached M. Valdemar I made a kind of half effort to influence his right arm into pursuit of my own, as I passed the latter gently to and fro above his person. In such experiments with this patient I had never perfectly succeeded before, and assuredly I had little thought of succeeding now; but to my astonishment, his arm very readily, although feebly, followed every direction I assigned it with mine. I determined to hazzard a few words of conversation.

"M. Valdemar," I said, "are you asleep?" He made no answer, but I perceived a tremour about the lips, and was thus induced to repeat the question, again and again. At its third repetition, his whole frame was agitated by a very slight shivering; the eye-lids unclosed themselves so far as to display a white line of the ball; the lips moved sluggishly, and from between them, in barely audible whisper, issued the words:

"Yes—asleep, now. Do not wake me!—let me die so!"

I here felt the limbs, and found them as rigid as ever. The right arm, as before, obeyed the direction of my hand. I questioned the sleep waker again:

"Do you still feel pain in the breast, M. Valdemar?"

The answer now was immediate, but even less audible than before.

"No pain—I am dying."

I did not think it advisable to disturb him further just then, and nothing more was said or done until the arrival of Dr. F——, who came a little before sunrise, and expressed unbounded astonishment at finding the patient still alive. After feeling the pulse and applying a mirror to the lips, he requested me to speak to the sleep-waker again. I did so, saying:

"M. Valdemar, do you still sleep?"

As before, some minutes elapsed ere a reply was made; and during the interval the dying man seemed to be collecting his energies to speak. At my fourth repetition of the question, he he said, very faintly, almost inaudibly:

"Yes; still asleep—dying."

It was now the opinion, or rather the wish of the physicians, that M. Valdemar should remain undisturbed in his present apparently tranquil condition, until death should supervene—and this, it was generally agreed, must now take place within a few minutes. I concluded, however, to speak to him once more, and merely repeated my previous question.

While I spoke, there came a marked change over the countenance of the sleep-waker. His eyes rolled themselves slowly open, the pupil disappearing upwardly; the skin generally assumed a cadaverous hue, resembling not so much parchment as white paper; and the circular hectic spots which, hitherto, had been strongly defined in the centre of each cheek, went out at once. I use this expression, because the suddenness of their departure put me in mind of nothing so much as the extinguishment of a candle by a puff of the breath, The upper lip writhed, at the same time writhed itself away from the teeth, which it had previously covered completely; while the lower jaw fell with an audible jerk, leaving the month widely extended, and exposing in full view the swollen tongue. I presume that no person then present had been unaccustomed to death-bed horrors; but so hideous beyond conception was the appearance of M. Valdemar at this moment, that there was a general shrinking away from the region of the bed.

I now feel that I have reached a point of the narrative at which every reader will be driven into positive disbelief. It is my business however, simply to proceed.

There was no longer the faintest sign of inability in M. Valdemar, and concluding him to be dead, we were consigning him to the care of the nurses, when a strong vibratory move was observed in the tongue. This continued for perhaps a minute. At the expiration of this period, there issued from the distended and motionless jaws a voice—such as it would be madness in me to attempt describing. There are, indeed, two or three epithets which might be considered as applicable to it in part; I might say, for example, that the sound was harsh, and broken and hollow; but the hideous whole is discribable for the simple reason that no similar sounds have ever jarred upon the ear of humanity.

There were two particulars, nevertheless, which I think might fairly be stated as characteristics of the intonation—as well adapted to convey some idea of its unearthly peculiarity. In the first place, the voice seemed to reach our ears—at least mine—from a vast distance, or from some deep cavern within the earth. In the second place, it impressed me as gelatinous or glutinous matter impress the sense of touch.

I have spoken both of "sound" and of "voice." I mean to say that the sound was one of distinct—of even wonderfully, thrillingly distinct—signification. M. Valdemar spoke—obviously in answer to the question I had propounded to him a few minutes before I had asked him, it will be remembered if he still slept. He now said:

"Yes,—no;—I have been sleeping—and now—now—I am dead.

No person present even affected to deny, or attempted to repress the unutterable, shuddering horror which these few words, thus uttered, were so well calculated to convey. Mr L——l (the student) swooned. The nurses immediately left the chamber, and could not be induced to return. My own impressions I would not pretend to render intelligible to the reader. For nearly an hour we busied ourselves, silently—without the utterance of a word—in endeavors to revive Mr. L——l. When he came to himself we addressed ourselves to an investigation or Mr. Valdemar's condition.

It remained in all respects as I have last described it, with the exception that the mirror no longer offorded evidence of respiration. An attempt to draw blood from the arm failed. I should mention, too, that this limb was no farther subject to my will. I endeavored in vain to make it follow the direction of my hand. The only real indication, indeed, of the mesmeric influence, was now found in the vibratory movement of the tongue, whenever I addressed M. Valdemar a question. He seemed to be making an effort at reply, but had no longer sufficient volition. To questions put to him by any other person than myself he seemed utterly insensible—although I endeavored to place each member of the company in mesmeric rapport with him. I believe that I have related all that is necessary to an understanding of the sleep-waker's state at this epoch.—Other nurses were procured; and at ten o'clock I left the house in company with the two physicians and Mr. L——l.

In the afternoon we all called again to see the patient. His condition remained precisely the same. We had now some discussion as to the propriety and feasibility of awakening him; but we had little difficulty in agreeing that no good purpose would be served by so doing. It was evident that, so far, death (or what is usually termed death) had been arrested by the mesmeric process. It seemed clear to us all that to awaken M. Valdemar would be merely to insure his instant, or at least his speedily dissolution.

From this period until the close of last week—an interval of nearly seven months—we continued to make daily calls at M. Valdemar's house, accompanied, now and then, by medical and other friends. All this time the sleep-waker remained exactly as I have last described him. The nurses' attention were continual.

It was on Friday last that we finally resolved to make the experiment of awakening, or attempting to awaken; and it is the (perhaps) unfortunate result of this latter experiment which has given rise to so much discussion in private circles—to so much of what I cannot help thinking unwarranted popular feeling.

For the purpose of relieving M. Valdemar from the mesmeric trance, I made use of the customary passes. These, for a time, were unsuccessful.—The first indication of revival was afforded by a partial descent of the iris. It was observed, as especially remarkable, that this lowering of the pupil was accompanied by the profuse out-flowing of a yellowish ichor (from beneath the lids) of a pungent and highly offensive odor.

It now was suggested that I should attempt to influence the patient's arm, as heretofore. I made the attempt and failed. Dr. F—— then intimated a desire to have me put a question. I did so as follows:

"Mr. Valdemar, can you explain to us what are your feelings or wishes now?"

There was an instant return of the hectic circles on the cheeks; the tongue quivered, or rather rolled violently in the mouth (although the jaws and lips remained rigid as before) and at length the same hideous voice which I have already described broke forth.

For God's sake!—quick!—quick!—put me to sleep—or, quick!—waken me!—quick!—I say to you that I am dead."

I was thoroughly unnerved, and for an instant remained undecided what to do. At first I made an endeavor to re-compose the patient, but, failing in this through total obeyance of the will, I retraced my steps and as earnestly struggled to awaken him. In this attempt I soon saw that I should be successful—or at least I soon fancied that my success would be complete—and I am sure that all in the room were prepared to see the patient awaken,

For what really occurred, however it is quite impossible that any human being could have been prepared.

As I rapidly made the mesmeric passes, amid ejaculations of "dead! dead!" absolutely bursting from the tongue and not from the lips of the sufferer, his whole frame at once—within the space of a single minute, or even less, shrunk—crumbled—absolutely rotted away beneath my hands. Upon the bed, before that whole company, there lay a nearly liquid mass of loathsome—of detestable putrescence.

THE GIRARD LIFE INSURANCE, ANNUITY AND TRUST COMPANY of Philadelphia. Chartered in 1836—Charter Perpetual;—Capital, $300,000—BENJAMIN W. RICHARDS, President:—Continues to make insurance on lives, grant annuities and endowments, and accept trusts from individuals, corporate bodies, and courts of justice, and execute them agreeably to the desire of the parties, and receive deposites of money in trust or on interest.

The Company add a bonus at stated periods to the insurance for life, and on the 20th of January last, an addition was made to all policies for life, remaining in force and issued prior to January 1st, 1842, amounting to 10 per cent. on the sum insured in policies issued in 1837, 7½ per cent. on policies issued in 1838, and in rateable proportions according to their respective dates.

The chief object of an insurance for life is to provide a sum of money at the death of the party insured, for the benefit of a widow, children, friends or creditors; and it will be seen on an examination of the table of rates of the life insurance, which will be furnished by the subscriber to all who may feel an interest in the subject, that by paying a small sum to the office every year during his life, a person may secure to his family a very considerable amount at his decease.

Wherever the system of Life Insurance is properly understood, it is extensively adopted, and its great advantages to all, but more especially to those who depend on their own exertions for the support of their families, or who may be desirous to secure the payment of a sum of money to their friends, creditors or children, at their decease, which they might be otherwise unable to accomplish, that the operation of the system needs but to be explained to ensure the serious consideration of the public.

In several instances it has happened that the party insured has died shortly after, having paid only one or two instalments of the premium, when his family have received from this office the full amount for which he had insured.

Full information on this important subject may be obtained by applying, personally, or by letter (post-paid) at the office of the subscriber, the authorised agent of the Girard Life Insurance Company.

Whig and Antimasonic Nomination

FOR MAYOR, ALLEGHENY CITY,
ROBERT S. CASSAT.

☞ When we published "another call for spiritual aid" yesterday, we simply obeyed a request. It is not necessary, now, to say how far we sympathized with the sufferer, or how deeply we condemned the delinquents. We said no more than the exigency demanded, and we have nothing to retract. If our language was received as a reproach upon a class, we cannot help it—it must be taken as the fault of the class, and not the errors of an editor. We endeavor to do our duty as an editor, and desire no advantage from the privilege the vocation gives, of playing the assailant.

☞ Our attention having been called to an effective appeal, in behalf of the Insane Asylum and Hospital, from the pen of the Rev'd. W. A. Passavant, the Pittsburgh Editor of the Lutheran Observer, we conceive it best for the good cause, to publish the article without abbreviation.

INSANE ASYLUM AND HOSPITAL.—The proposition to establish such an institution for the relief of the insane and the destitute sick and wounded is now before this community. A meeting called by the Mayor at the request of a number of our citizens, was held in the Court House a few weeks since, at which a series of resolutions were passed, and various committees appointed, who are industriously engaged in prosecuting the work entrusted to them. The Western Pennsylvania Hospital Society is to be revived, and the Legislature of the State memorialized to modify its charter in such a manner as will best advance the important ends which the Society have in view. With what degree of zeal the board of Trustees will apply themselves to this humane work, we are unable to speak with certainty, but from their well known characters for public spirit and benevolence, we indulge the pleasing hope that all the difficulties will be surmounted in the building up of such an institution, and that our city will at length be provided with both a Hospital and an Asylum for the relief of those unfortunate ones, whom the hand of God hath so sorely chastened.

The insane and the destitute sick! It would seem that there was something in the situation of these two classes which excited the warmest sympathies of the Saviour's heart, and caused him to put forth the mightiest efforts of his saving power. He went about doing good and healing all manner of diseases and all that were oppressed of the Devil. Neither need we wonder at this, for in these two classes the sufferings of every other state may be included. These are cases painfully affecting, which blend in themselves every minor evil, and eclipse as with the darkness of death every other shade of woe! Unlike many objects of suffering which are clamorous for relief, and whose wailing is heard in our streets, there are cases of aggravated suffering here of which the world know nothing, and which it, alas! but too often disregards; cases, the deep and hopeless wretchedness of whose condition hath found no recorder among men, and the narrative of whose bitter experience is read alone by themselves. To find out these unhappy sufferers, it is necessary to visit the broken family circle which was once entire, and the friendly Asylum, whose christian philanthropy has provided them a home.

Let us pause for a moment and dwell upon the case of such. Alas! it was not always thus with them! There was a time when they sustained the relation of father, mother, sister, brother, son, to a family, and rejoiced in the happiness it imparted. There was a time when they were strong in the vigor of a robust frame, and a sound mind, when the active intellect laughed at the thought of imbecility, and rejoiced in the exercise of its healthy powers. There was a time when that poor maniac was a wife, a mother, and found in the tranquil depths of domestic life the waters of peace and contentment; when that chained madman was the accomplished—the distinguished juror—the eloquent pleader, and the monument of the Society in which he moved; when that sad despairing one was animated with hope, and noble ambition to distinguish himself in the service of humanity; when that fierce demoniac was the humble minister of Jesus Christ—the delight of weeping and admiring thousands, and like his Master the sympathising friend of "publicans and sinners;" when that poor demented one, sitting on the ground, and ever and anon throwing up pebbles and catching them as they fall, was the man of towering intellect, whose eloquence thrilled the souls of men and held them spell bound, while in the councils of the nation, he unfolded these comprehensive views of right which shaped its policy and made it great and glorious among the nations of the earth.

Alas! how has the scene changed! How have their bright and splendid hopes perished! Their sun has gone down while it was yet day, and it has sunk in darkness. Would that this were all, but alas! sun, moon and stars have sunk together! The family circle is broken. Its mirth and happiness are gone. Its domestic joys have withered away. He had a wife, but she is a maniac! She had a husband—a protector—but the hand of God hath chastened him sore. They had a mother—a father, but they have become orphans, not indeed in name; but in reality, and the Porch of Mercy hath opened to them its friendly walls. Bereaved husband! disconsolate wife! motherless children! who will come to your aid? who will wipe away your tears, and dry up the overflowing fountains of your grief? Mercy alone can accomplish the task; mercy assuming the form of humanity and becoming the good Samaritan; mercy softening the heart, unhording the wealth, opening the hand, promoting the soul to a work of love—the erection of an Asylum, where the unfortunate may find a home—a second home, if not a home of affection, yet a home of kindest attentions, if not their own sweet home, yet a quiet and peaceful retreat, where the shattered mind may regain its energies, and the desponding heart be healed, and the sufferer be restored to his first home, in perfect soundness before God.

We conclude by expressing the hope, that the enterprise now on foot in our city, to establish an Asylum for these unfortunate ones, may not fall to the ground. Religion and humanity—the precepts of the one, and the impulses of the other, demand the existence of such an institution. God has set the seal of his approval on similar efforts elsewhere, and his blessing shall not be withheld here. Earnestly do we therefore hope, that success may crown this humane effort, and that ere long, the foundation of a noble structure will be laid, for the relief of these two classes of suffering humanity.

The Quarterly Review of the American Protestant Association for the fourth quarter, has been laid on the table. It contains several valuable papers, and sustains the high character of this periodical. May be had in this city, at Carter's book store in Market street.

Loco-Foco Financiering.

We copy the following from the last number of the New York Tribune:—"We hear of a gross abuse which we are told has recently been practised at a considerable post-office in this State, which may be imitated, so we will call attention to it. The circumstances are these.

"Soon after the new postage law went into effect, Mr. Johnson unfortunately became alarmed by the numerous and touching examples of resignation evinced by postmasters, and issued a circular decreeing a contingent increase of compensation to postmasters at the less important offices. (This was all wrong; if five thousand had seen fit to resign, their places might have been speedily filled by good men or better women, who would have gladly undertaken and faithfully discharged the duties for the legal compensation.) But in at least one case we are informed that the postmaster has misunderstood this circular to direct that each postmaster shall have as much aggregate compensation as he had last year under high postage: so he has taken the butt-end off of the aggregate receipts of his office, and returned the residue as the net proceeds of his office! Mr. Johnson, will you have those accounts thoroughly scrutinized?"

LARGE REWARD.—A reward of $1000 is offered for the arrest of S. S. Hinton, a lawyer of Cherokee county, Alabama, who is charged with killing L. Stallings, while in the discharge of his official duties.

The New Judge.

We have already alluded to the boiling dissatisfaction of the Naturalized Democracy occasioned by the nomination of Judge Woodward to the Supreme Bench. The Union was premature in announcing the confirmation of this nomination as we find by the U. S. Journal which has the following paragraph:

NOT SO.—The nomination of Judge Woodward has not been confirmed by the Senate, as was stated a few days ago in the official paper.—U. S. Journal.

The Spirit of the Times, an ably conducted Journal, and recognized as the organ of the Naturalized portion of the Democracy, has a very angry and warm article on the subject of this appointment which we are glad to place on record. We have great respect for Democracy, but the Democracy in a snarl we especially esteem.

From the Philadelphia Spirit of the Times.

GEO. W. WOODWARD—The Washington Daily Union of Wednesday evening, announces that Geo. W. Woodward was on that day confirmed by the Senate, to the Judgeship on the Supreme Bench of the United States. This, we think, is an error. The Senate was not in session on Wednesday.

We give this information to allay the feeling and apprehension that it has excited. About a week ago we had fears that the name of Judge Woodward had been urged upon the President by some designing and contriving persons—some intriguing politicians who were willing to hazard the safety of the party in this State, so that their own selfish purposes were effected. The hint given in some of the published letters from Washington, that Mr. Woodward might probably receive the nomination roused the party in this county and excited keen apprehensions of disapprobation. It was on that account that we were induced to state our views. We are gratified to learn that they were responded to, not only at home—on this the battle ground of nativeism in this city, disgraced by its outrages and desecrated by its impiety—but throughout the whole State.

We know the influences that were brought to bear to produce this nomination, and we will oppose the petty political intriguers who have dared to play with Pennsylvania as with chessmen. The nomination is but the first move in a great game for the succession. By it, forces were to be so arranged in Pennsylvania as to produce results that should advance the selfish and ambitious views of a desperate, scheming political character.

Pennsylvania cannot be played with. Nobly and fearlessly she has breasted every storm and resisted the assaults of the enemies of democracy.

Where would have been the party if it had not been for the firmness of Pennsylvania during the late Presidential contest? What would have been the result if we had not denounced the Nativists—those enemies of religious liberty and human rights? What would have been the result if the party—the whole party in this state had not harmonized, and burying all past feuds, had united as brethren to defeat the common foe? We say to these men, beware! There is a point beyond which men will cease to submit.—They will not remain passive and see a federalist of the alien and sedition law stamp, advanced to the highest place in the gift of the government, and be told at the same time that he is the choice of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Woodward is a Nativist—a Nativist of the worst kind—a Nativist without the shadow of the excuse that the one idea party urge in extenuation of their dogmas or acts. Calmly and deliberately on the floor of the Convention he rose and against the solicitations of friends, asserted that Foreigners should be excluded from the privilege "of voting and holding office." These were not the opinions of a youth—an impetuous lad, but they were the mature reflections of a man, avowed by him to be the result of deliberation, and opinions that he had entertained for a long time. The Convention met in this city in 1837, not more than eight years ago. It was then that he announced those doctrines which can now only be found in the Nativist papers, and by them taken from the buried creed of Hamilton and Adams.

The Declaration of Independence charges upon the King of G. Britain, as one of the just causes of the revolution, that he had "obstructed the laws of naturalization of foreigners." The writings of Jefferson—the creed of the party—the defeat of John Adams and the triumph of Democracy, has established that this country was to be the land of refuge—the asylum of the oppressed. If Mr. W. professed democracy, he knew the past endured to secure those rights and to establish those principles. And yet, with that knowledge, he openly recanted his faith, and in the face of day deserted his principles and stood up for doctrines that are at variance with our creed; and which once established would undo the noble work of our ancestors and restore despotism to its throne.

The President has been deceived. We know that he is a democrat—bred in the school of Jefferson—a pupil of Jackson. We know that he is a patriot.—We know that he would sooner part with life than hazard the safety of one principle which the democratic party holds dear.

Mr. Woodward is a man unequal to the Judgeship. His past pursuits unfit him for the place; his professional knowledge is confined to such subjects as come within the jurisdiction of a County Court. How can he be expected to grasp intricate questions of commercial maratime and national Law? What does he know of the immense and subtle learning necessary to make even a passable equity Judge?

We are not lawyers, but we have read something of the jurisdiction of Courts, and we know with lawyers that a proper knowledge of any one of these branches is, looked on as the work of a life. Mr Woodward will never do. After years of labor he may make himself equal to the place, but in the mean while how are the interests of the public to be protected?

We invoke the Senate to interpose. We mean this article as our homily on "Senatorial responsibility."

We shall follow this subject up and respond to the public sentiment by giving utterance to the opinions of our thousands of Democratic readers.

Attempt at Suicide.

We copy the following from the Bowling Green, Ky. Argus of last Saturday:—On last Friday, Mr. Clinton Covington, aged nineteen years, son of Gen. Covington, was found in his room at his father's residence, in the vicinity of this place, having been shot with a musket charged with shot. The entire load entered the abdominal region, and ranged in the direction of the shoulder, cutting his lungs, but miraculously avoiding the heart. The young man is in a very critical and perilous situation, but hopes are entertained of his recovery. All the circumstances favor the conclusion that the act was perpetrated by himself, yet, on the subject, he obstinately refuses to speak.

Except.

Foote, travelling in the West of England, dined one day in an inn. When the cloth was removed the landlord asked him how he liked his fare? "I have dined as well as any man in England," said Foote. "Except Mr. Mayor," said the landlord. "I do not except any body whatever," said he. "But you must," bawled the host. "I won't." "You must." At length the strife ended in taking Foote before the Mayor; who observed that it had always been the custom in that town, for a great number of years, always to except Mr. Mayor, and accordingly fined him a shilling for not conforming to this ancient custom. Upon this decision Foote paid the shilling, at the same time observing that he thought the landlord was the greatest fool in Christendom—except Mr. Mayor.

Indian Corn, Breadstuffs, &c.

We have at various times called the attention of Europeans to our corn meal, which in this season of scarcity may be available as it is most certainly cheap and nutritious, making the best possible food. We are happy to learn that this subject has awakened a proper attention among those feeling a deep interest in the present scarcity of the European crops. They are now using our Indian corn in England, France, Holland, Belgium and Germany in experimental baking. They are mixing it with rye, and it is said to make very good bread. A French chemist has proved that the value of two sous in Indian corn will support a man as long as the value of ten sous laid out in white bread. We are rejoiced to hear this, because it is of all our products the most cheaply raised, and in such abundance that it one day may become a staple of our country, like cotton. Indian corn will not grow in the thin soil of France, nor in the damp climate of England. We cannot on the Atlantic States, produce it in any great quantities, but in the rich loamy soil of the great West and in the South, millions of bushels can be raised without trouble, and in many instances two crops can be raised in a year without manure. Of Indian Corn we can raise sufficient for an ample supply of all Europe, and at a price so moderate that the poor need never want. Our vast prairies and valleys on the borders of our great rivers can be cultivated to an extent which would astonish the world. Providence has been bountiful to us—as bread sometimes so scarce in Europe is always plentiful with us. Our country, like the North of Africa in the times of the Romans, may soon be the granary of the world.

They have not yet learnt in Europe to make corn bread. The meal should not be mixed with rye; but the corn flour, after being well ground, should be mixed simply with water a little salt, and kneaded into flat cakes and baked in front of the fire, or in clean ashes, as they do at the South where that bread is so sweet and desirable. Corn meal for the laboring poor has a great advantage over all kinds of bread stuffs. The farmer or wood cutter can go out to work carrying his supply of corn meal for the day, and when hungry, by the aid of a little water, he can make his corn loaf. A little fire in the wood bakes it, and he has it hot and sweet for his dinner. Besides, it is a most invigorating food, and very healthy.—N. Y. Sun.

Manufactures in South Carolina.

The Charleston "News" congratulates those friendly to a change in the system of South Carolina industry, on the passage of two bills by the Legislature for chartering manufacturing associations. It says that the path is now open to almost unfettered enterprize for those in South Carolina, who are disposed to engage in manufactures, and urges them to come to the task of changing the present scheme of industry, with the energy and caution that will ensure success.

Matters Personal.

We place on record to-day, for future reference, the Gazette's rejoinder to our, so called, attacks. We do this, although he would do nothing like it, because we are resolved not to be placed in the wrong. Most readers will be ready to say, that this quarrel is disgraceful. Grant it; but when we show that it is not of our seeking, we expect to be heard to the end.

When we took charge of the Commercial Journal, in July last, we did it with a warm and earnest desire to cultivate amicable relations with our Whig brethren of the press; and that we might not be misapprehended, held the following language in our prospectus:

"While we would not in the smallest degree disparage the usefulness or even the sufficiency of established Whig newspapers, we shall take the place to which we are prompted by political bias. We were educated in a Whig school; and subsequent familiarity with politics and politicians has served but to confirm our attachment to Whig principles."

In response to this, we had a cold reception from the Gazette. Of that, we had no disposition to complain. We cared nothing for the good opinion of a competitor with-held. But it was not unimportant, as shewing the disposition of the Gazette, to observe how much more warmly it recognized the advent of a new candidate for patronage from the Democracy. The Post, a Democratic paper, fell under new auspices, and got a new head. The Gazette greeted it thus:

"The Post made its appearance yesterday under the proprietorship of the new publishers, and with JOHN BIGLER, Esq. announced as editor. They promise soon to enlarge their sheet, and improve its appearance, as well as to pay much attention to the commercial department. We are pleased to see this evidence of business spirit, and we hope their determinations may be fully carried out."

This is as it should be. The amiable Editor of the Post, although differing with us all in politics, deserved such recognition. The manner of the Gazette's greeting, is only valuable as shewing, that in the very inception of our career, we were an object of jealous regard; he had said for us that

"Mr. J. HERON FOSTER has also withdrawn from the Age, and Mr. RIDDLE, as formerly announced, will hereafter preside over its editorial columns.—We hear of other changes, which will probably shortly be announced."

This is proof, that we did not enter the field with so much indulgence as he had already shewn the Democratic Organ. We allude to the matter merely to give an effective contradiction to the Editor's declaration, that he had "cultivated amicable relations with us." The fact is, otherwise, unimportant.

In the meanwhile, we had been compelled to hear that the Editor of the Gazette had alluded to the Journal establishment, as a "broken down concern," and had actually withdrawn from us one advertiser, and obtained others upon the representation that we were "broken down."

We have the names to give, whenever this is denied.

It will be conceded, that these are matters which could not be overlooked. Hence, it is that we have a quarrel with the Gazette.

What we have charged against the Editor, is already before the public, and while he does not attempt to clear himself of falsehood, we are brought to the consideration of his article in another column.

He says there, that his prosperity has aroused our latent envy and jealousy. That this is not so, we offer in proof, the fact, that we never questioned his prosperity and success, and at this moment we have no hesitation to admit, that he is much more prosperous than he deserves to be. But he does not retract his falsehoods. He denied having taken from us an advertiser, at half price, and we repeat the assertion, with an offer to give the name of the merchant, so taken from us, if he persists in denial. Still no answer! He has charged that there "were many in Pittsburgh who would be glad to know that we had property in the Journal establishment." And when we reply that we have such property, and question the truth of his charge, he avoids it altogether, with the culpable admission, that "he believed" what he said. If we felt free to say of him, what WE BELIEVE, and to add what we know, we should make a bad picture of the Gazette's editor. Yet we will do no such thing. Self-respect forbids it, and we will always regard that point; with our invitation to verify his charge, and his refusal to carry it out, the reader must be assured that he was indulging the malignity and envy he ascribed to us.

But we have more to say about this editor of the Gazette

He has avoided every issue made with him, and we made none that could not be sustained by unquestionable authority. This we mean to be decisive. He has falsified us, and we prove it without a rejoinder, or an attempt from him at justification.

Hereafter we shall regard him as convicted of falsehood, because we give him the reason and the fact to prove him false, and his only rejoinder is, that "we profess to be a gentleman." He asks for our definition of "Gentleman!" We will give it whenever he exhibits a claim to the first quality of that character. So far he has no title.

The whipped and whining dog has no claim to our sympathy. He has answered nothing we have charged, and we set him down to be as false as he is feeble, and deserving only of contempt.

Streets and Houses of Pekin.

Although the principal streets are, as I have said, sufficiently wide, the by-streets are so narrow that two carriages cannot pass in them, and a driver is obliged on entering them, to call out, that no one may enter at the same time at the opposite end. Formerly, at every point of intersection between these streets there stood a gate, closed at night; but though many of these gates are still standing, the custom has been discontinued.

The houses of the Chinese have a monotonous appearance, being mostly surrounded with high walls of gray half baked brick, above which nothing but their peaked roofs are to be seen. The only exception of this uniform gray color is offered by the imperial palace, which is covered with smooth green tiles. Besides this, seven or eight princely abodes offer some variety of color, but the unvarying dusty hue of the rest would become insupportably wearisome, were it not for the relief afforded by the projecting shops. Before the entrance of each of these hangs a varnished black board, covered with gold letters, but there is little decoration in any other than the sweatmeat shops. The whole fronts of these are almost covered with gilding, enriched with sprawling dragons and other figures, and their splendor is rendered still more striking from the contrast presented not unfrequently by the ruinous hovel and broken down wall adjoining.

Gardens or walks for public resort do not exist in Pekin, and among the buildings the only ones worthy of notice are the temples, which are profusely painted with vermillion.

☞ A printed handbill has been sent to us (says Neal's Gazette) from which we make the following comical extract. Whether the thing is genuine, or only a quiz, we cannot pretend to say; but lest it should be the latter, we omit the name and give the initials only:

"J. G., Surgeon, Parish Clerk and Schol Master. Reforms ladys and gentlemen that he draws teeth without waisting a moment, blisters on the lowest terms, and fysicks at a pony a piece. Sells Godfather's Cordel, cut corns, and undertakes to keep any bodies nails by the year, or so on. Young ladees and gentlemen tort their grammer langwage in the neatest manner; also grate care taken of their morals and spellin. Also sarme singing and teeching the Ho! Boy Cow Tillions and other dances tort at home and broad. Perfumery in all its branches.—

Sells all sorts of stashonary ware, blacking balls, red herrings and coals, scrabbing brushes, trecle, mouse traps, and all other sorts of sweetmeats, likewise taters, sassages, and other garden stuffs—also frute, hats, ballets hoyle, tin ware, and all other eatables. Tumer sarve, corn sarves, and all hard wares. He also performs fleebotomy in a curious manner. Farthermore in particular, he has laid in a large sortment of tripe, china, dog's meat, lollypops, and other pickle, such as hoysters, ect. Old rags bought and sold here, and not any ware holse—and new laid eggs every day, by me J. G. P. S. I teeches juggrefy, and all them outlandish things. N. B. A bawl on Wednesdays."

Stage Accident.

One of the Frankfort stages, says the Louisville Journal, was upset last week, a few miles from the city. Some of the passengers were considerably bruised, but none were seriously hurt.

Twenty-ninth Congress.

FIRST SESSION.

Correspondence of the Baltimore American.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27, 1845.

The few remarks made by Mr. Calhoun, in the Senate to-day, upon the subject of the Resolutions of inquiry relative to the Civil and Military possession of Oregon, together with other indications of a more important character, make it certain that the Senator from South Carolina will not be influenced by any of the considerations which induced others to jump blind-fold into preliminary measures of hostility. Mr. C's. opinions are now precisely what they were in 1840; that is, he is in favor of that "wise and masterly inactivity" which, if practised, will probably place the country in possession of all that is desirable in the territory west of the Rocky Mountains. In the Senate the tone of his remarks, rather than the few words he has uttered, make it certain that he will not only not be hasty to act himself, but that he will wisely control those who are disposed to extreme action. Even the one year's notice, it is thought, he will oppose at present, regarding it as an ill-advised movement on the part of Congress.

The President of the United States has expressed himself very freely within the three days past that there will be no war, and he has denied having any wish, near or remote, to do any thing which might provoke the two countries to hostilities.—The storm created by the debate in the Senate, and by the many questions submitted in both Houses of Congress, relative to the Oregon Territory, has in a measure subsided. Great anxiety is felt to hear the news from England, and action here will probably be controlled a great deal by action abroad.

From the Pittsburgh Gazette.

The Journal and Gazette.

It is with extreme reluctance, and not without many misgivings of its propriety, that we again trouble our readers with what may truly be called an editorial quarrel. From the commencement of the career of the Journal as a Whig paper, we determined to have no controversy of any sort with it. Past experience had convinced us that they would be distasteful to our readers, injurious to the Whig cause, and to the reputation of our city—somewhat too celebrated for its editorial quarrels. In the midst of much provocation we have in the main adhered to our determination, and we mean to adhere to it. The announcement of our Steam Press and proposed enlargement, have, however, aroused the latent envy and jealousy of the editor of the Journal (which must have previously very nearly reached boiling point) into such active and malignant eruption, that we may be excused a momentary departure from our rule.

What appears to trouble the editor of the Journal is our prosperity, which he seems to consider is unmerited, and so much abstracted from his just dues;—makes a very simple announcement on our part a text for a long article of his grievances and our offences.

We cannot pretend to enter item by item into the charges of our neighbor, and could not, if we would just now, as the papers containing them have been lost or mislaid, and we have not the leisure to go out after others. We must trust to memory for such as we may be in the humor to notice. One of the chief of the latter is, that we have evidently only noticed his improvements for the sake of saying how much we were about to make;—a grave offence truly, even if true, which it is not. Our neighbor's envy has clouded his judgment. He hangs his pocket quarrel upon too slender a peg, and has made himself a laughing stock. The public feels no interest beyond amusement in his quarrel, and he but whines to a dull reluctant ear, held, as it were, by the button, and compelled to listen to his private grievances, real or imaginary, perforce. Now, whenever our friend, the Public, is thus caught, it is sure to revenge itself upon the offender before long. Of this our uneasy neighbor may feel assured.

If we recollect aright the editor of the Journal proposes that he and we should each publish a list of our subscribers, by way of proving which is the largest.—Now the editor very well knew when he made the offer that we should under no such circumstances descend to any such course, and therefore, that his banter might be made with perfect safety. We have no reason to be ashamed either of the number or character of our subscribers—indeed we are very proud of both—but the publication of their names was no part of the contract, express or implied, between us, and they might very justly feel offended at our freedom.—Beside we do not feel under any necessity of bolstering up the respectability of our paper by that of our subscribers. We can very readily believe that the editor of the Journal finds himself in a different position notwithstanding his "new suit" and "appearances" which, we apprehend would be unsafe to trust in any other case whatever. But if he deems the publication of the names of his subscribers justifiable and proper, there is nothing to prevent him from resorting to it. Our declining to do so, can form no argument against publication by him. It appears a very ready way of establishing his own claims to advertising patronage, though it may not throw much light upon ours.

There are other reasons why we should be unwilling to enter into any engagement of this kind with our neighbor, but we forbear stating them.

The editor of the Journal intimates that in saying that his article contained "many falsehoods" we have departed from what is always expected "among gentlemen." We do not think we have. When any one, with a view of injuring our business, and helping his own, states in regard to our private affairs what is not true, we hold it perfectly proper, though perhaps not very courteous, to say that his statement is a falsehood. In such cases, and it is the present one, we shall not for a moment suppose ourselves dealing with "a gentleman." But the word "gentleman" is a word entirely too vague to talk about. In different mouths it means various and very different things.—If the editor will tell us what he means by a "gentleman," we can then judge how far he comes up to his own standard, and how far his standard falls short or goes beyond that of others. We await his definition with some impatience, and hope it may not be withheld. Mr. RIDDLE's ideas of what is essential to the character of "a gentleman" must be worth knowing, and we shall scarcely fail to publish them "for the benefit of all concerned."

For our own part, though not disposed to undervalue the proprieties of convention, we are more solicitous that what we say and do should be true and right, and that it should conform to mere conventional usage. We are aware that it would be a violation of this usage to call a teller of untruth by the dishonoring epithet which most thoroughly exposes his character. But we were not informed that the word falsehood was in the same manner beyond propriety. If, however, the editor of the Journal can satisfy us that it is, we will endeavor to find in our copious language some terms meaning the same thing, which shall grate less offensively upon his "gentlemanly" ears.

In his paper of yesterday, the editor has made very extensive quotations from our columns to show that we have boasted of our success and growth. We are glad he has done this. His readers will find nothing in them but a reference to our own affairs—no covert attack upon our cotemporaries; no envy or spleen at another's prosperity; no boasting of a circulation to the disparagement of another. These extracts also contain nothing but the simple unvarnished truth, and matters which we deemed of interest to our friends and patrons.

He, also, in the same paper, charges us with the lie direct,—He is a "gentleman" no doubt!—for saying that if he could prove that he owned his establishment in the eye of the law, there were a few who would be glad to hear it. We care very little what the editor may say or think about us. His ungentlemanly interference in our private affairs has placed him without the pale of those whose respect we covet. We only said what we believed, but it would never have been said by us, had he not provoked us by his contemptible impertinence.

Mr. Gough.

A very severe article, denunciatory of Mr. John B. Gough, recently appeared in the Police Gazette of New York. We perceive from the Boston Star, that the gentleman assailed has deemed it necessary to appear again before the public, in vindication of his character. He pronounces the charges of the Gazette false, and says: "I say, first, that I can show, in a manner which the editors of the Gazette little suspected, where I have been, with whom, where I slept, and what I have done, every day and night that I have been in New York, since May 15th, 1843. I can do this, because from that date I have kept a regular dairy of all the places I have visited, where I have spoken, whom I met, what I received, with whom I stopped, &c. I therefore only ask any day to be named that I have been in New York, since May 15th, 1843, and I will produce as respectable witnesses as can be found, to prove where I went, what I did, and where I took my night's rest."

Various statements are made, in reply to the allegations of the Gazette, and Mr. G. says: "There are some other matters which I would gladly mention here, but I must content myself with the avowal that I am ready to meet any and all charges against my integrity, and to refute them, when they shall take the proper shape. I am not afraid of an open enemy—but I seem to have around me a host of those secret assassins, whose poisonous tongues can wound, but whom it is impossible to reach. Why such incessant efforts should be made to ruin me, by every species of falsehood, by plots and foul contrivances, I cannot conceive. I have injured no one, knowingly; I have no motive or wish to conduct myself in any way but honestly, honorably, and uprightly; and upon that integrity of character I stand, and from it I defy all assaults."

Destructive Fire at Columbus, Georgia.—Great Loss of Property!

A fire broke out at Columbus, Geo., on the 20th inst., in the store house of Messrs. Baugh & Mitchell, on the upper part of Broad street, a few doors below Rankin's corner, and burnt nearly the whole square fronting on Broad st., and bounded south by Randolph st. and east by Oglethorpe st.; thence across Bryant street, to Randolph st., excepting that portion on Oglethorpe street north of J. B. Well's Restaurant. The office of the Columbus Times, and the Bank of St. Mary's, were destroyed, though their contents were saved. [illegible] the [illegible] total loss in buildings from $100,000 to $150,000. Gen. Daniel McDougald is the heaviest sufferer, [illegible] valued at $50,000. Upwards of 40 buildings, mostly stores were laid in ashes.

For the Commercial Journal.

The Late Abner L. Pentland.

On Saturday the 27th of the present month, Abner Lacock Pentland, in the 33d year of his age, entered into his rest. For many years the writer of this notice was his intimate friend, and may therefore speak of his character and capacity.

He was educated at the Western University of Pennsylvania, under the care of Professors Bruce and Black and graduated with the reputation of an accurate and accomplished scholar. He subsequently, with two of his fellows, completed a full course at Harvard University, and returned to Pittsburgh, having attained a distinction in science which few of his age had acquired. He entered the office of Walter Forward, and after the usual period of study was admitted to the bar, having filled to overflowing the expectations of his learned and kind preceptor. Yet it would be false to say that he succeeded at his profession. He did not. He seemed, and was, too nicely strung for the fierce struggles on the rough sea of litigation. He therefore never took an active part in his profession, but rather shrank from its contests.

Nevertheless, on difficult questions, many much older than himself, were in the habit of seeking his opinion, at the same time confessing the greatness of his ability, the clearness of his thought and the correctness of his perceptions.

But it is in the social circle his high praise is to be sung. Here he was indeed precious. At his mother's table, at the fireside, where all was kindness and love, thoughts of beauty flowed from him, like water from a perpetual fountain. Without an effort, (and here was his excellence,) he could disclose a familiar friendship with all literature, past and present, until the listener's ear was charmed, so daintily did the fingers of his mind touch the lute he played upon. "He was a man, setting his fate aside, of comely virtues." His wit was quick, delicate, and always amusing—yet he himself was melancholy, even to sadness. His constitution was feeble, and his nervous system wholly unfit for the rude touches of this money grasping world.

No man could have been less adapted to the jostles and bustle of busy time. He has gone to his rest. The last being to whom he spoke was his mother. To her he had clung, even in manhood, with a child's affection. His words, of prophetic beauty were these: Mother, I see a great distance, and so indeed he did. "The gates of this fair and beautiful world were closing forever," but the doors of the other were opened in Elysian brightness. The veil of of separation was lifted—he saw his large recompense in the distance, but not dimly, "other groves and streams, fresh woods and pastures new." How much happier is he than the countless friends, who, with many tears, committed his dust to its kindred. B.

☞ There are expected (says the Vicksburg Intelligencer of the 8th inst.) in about ten days or two weeks, five thousand Choctaw Indians here, to cross the river, on their way to their new home, West of the Mississippi.

☞ The Boston Post says that William Hickling Webber, sixteen years of age, son of Capt. John A. Webber, of the U. S. Army, now at Watertown Arsenal, Massachusetts, and grandson of the late President Webber, of Harvard University, was instantly killed by a fall from the mizen topsail yard of the ship Woodside, of Boston, at the mouth of the Hoogly river, in September.

☞ CAN CONSUMPTION BE CURED?—This question is asked by many anxious souls, who, perhaps, are in the last stage of disease, or have some near or valuable friends thus afflicted; to this I answer, painful as it is to say, that few ever recover. Death cannot be deprived of its prey, when disease has knitted its fatal threads upon the vitals. It is therefore of the utmost importance for all persons who may have a bad cold, cough, pain in the breast and side, soreness of the throat, difficulty of raising up the phlegm and matter that accumulates upon the lungs, in the primary stages, and leads to Consumption when not removed. To such as are afflicted, I would recommend them to procure at once a few bottles of Dr. Duncan's Expectorant Remedy which is certain to remove all the first symptoms that so often hang so long to the system, and finally destroy life. A RELIEVED SUFFERER.

Dr. Wistar's Great Discovery!
IT was once said—"There is nothing new under the sun." This has been emphatically true in reference to medicine. Hundreds of pills, panaceas, expectorants and specifics, of all sorts, have been puffed into notoriety—all made mainly of the same ingredients, adding no new materials to the "healing art." But Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, furnishes a new medical agent—a new principle evolved from nature's own depository. It cures Asthma, Incipient Consumption, Liver complaint, and all diseases of the Lungs, when nothing else will. An honorable member of the Canadian Parliament, writes that it has cured him of asthma of ten years' standing.
A. Williams, attorney at law, 58 William street, New York, has been cured of the same disease of twenty-four years' standing.
Mr. Cozens, of New Jersey, makes affidavit that it cured him of a supposed consumption, after his physicians had given him up to die; and so with hundreds of others.
☞ Remember we positively, in no case, palm off unreal cures produced by this invaluable remedy.
☞ Be sure to get Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry—there are imitations!

Rubefacient.
PITTSBURGH, December 5th, 1844.—Messrs. B. A. Fahnestock & Co.—Gentlemen: I had the misfortune, day before yesterday to have my left thumb caught in a windlass, by which it was severely mashed and bruised. The pain was intense, and the thumb was swelled almost to bursting. I could sleep none the night following, from the agony I suffered. Yesterday I called at your store to see if I could procure any thing that would afford relief. Your young man recommended the Rubefacient, and gave me a bottle; I applied some immediately, and in about an hour afterwards, I obtained complete relief.—The swelling subsided, and the pain ceased entirely, and has not since returned. My sleep last night was sound and undisturbed. I still continue the use of it, and shall till the thumb recovers its former strength. I strongly recommend the Rubefacient as a valuable remedy for bruises

LOCAL NEWS.

COUNCIL ROOMS.—At the late meeting of the Councils, Mr. Algeo, in the select council, presented a report from the Committee on city property, on the proposition of George Breed to rent rooms for the use of councils. They report that the rooms are not suitable, and earnestly urge councils by arguments founded on necessity and economy to cause a suitable building to be erected on the 4th street lot, for Mayor's office &c. &c., and offered a resolution, authorizing the committee to receive proposals for plans &c.

DISTRICT COURT.—The District Court, Judge Grier, Presiding, was engaged during yesterday in the prosecution of the case of Wm Robb, President, &c., vs. Wm. Ebbs, Administrator, de bonis non of the estate of Robert Taylor.

COMMON PLEAS—Judge Patton, Presiding, was occupied yesterday in the hearing of arguments.

WE understand that Mr, Hampton will not be able to attend court to day, and in consequence the argument in the case of Scott and McGiffin will be postponed until Saturday, or longer if necessary.

REPORT ON THE RELIEF DISTRIBUTION—In the Select Council, Mr. Bakewell presented a report from the Committee on Distribution. The report says that he had received from the Treasurer of Relief Fund $161,247,37—had adjudged 1310 claims for loss by the Fire—and issued checks to the amount of $160,617—leaving a balance of $630,37 in Banks—and the Treasurer has on hand about $9,340,00—and recommends the distribution thereof—and that the balance of $20,000 from the State had not been received, &c. Accompanying the report was a list of the names of those who had received of the fund,

The committee also recommend,

First, that George Darsie, Esq., be authorised to draw the balance of $20,000 still remaining in the hands of the State Treasurer, of State gratuity.

Second, that all whose losses by the fire of the 10th of April, shall be less than $3000, shall receive such additional aid as will make up 20 per cent upon such losses.

Third, that all whose losses range between $3000 and $3500, shall receive $100 in addition to the assistance already afforded them from the relief fund.

Fourth, that all whose losses exceed the sum of $3500 shall receive $150 as above.

Fifth, that the Treasurer of the Relief Fund be authorised to sell all the uncurrent money in his possession, and deposit such funds as he may have on hand in one or more banks of this city.

Sixth, that a committee of five gentlemen, be appointed to examine the vouchers and audit the Treasurer and the Committee on distribution,

The recommendations of the Committee were concurred in.

A WALK.—A walk does not, these times, furnish so much of incident and variety in Pittsburgh as usual. The closing of navigation, has the effect of checking the extreme business activity which ordinarily attracts one's attention. During a pretty extensive ramble yesterday over both cities, we found nothing of any especial interest The walking was rather unpleasant; though the weather was warm and mild.

THE RELIEF FUND—The proposition for the publishing of the names of the recipients of the Relief Fund was discussed in the C. Council on Monday night. Before a vote was taken, however, the question was postponed.

BROKE THROUGH—A woman, crossing the Allegheny above the Aqueduct yesterday fell through the ice. She screamed loud enough to alarm half the city, but it was found by those who went to her rescue that the water was not more than eighteen inches deep, where she "put her foot in it."

INTERESTING DECISION.—Judge Patton, in the Court of Common Pleas, on Monday, stated that that Court has no right to reverse the decision of a Mayor's or Magistrate's Court, in relation to offences of drunkenness, profane swearing, and offences of a similar grade, except where right of appeal is given by statute.

Mr. Hamilton said he hoped the Court would withhold its decision, until he could have time to search for some authorities, which he thought might change the Judge's opinion.

Mr. Alden acquiescing, the Court holds the matter under its advisement.

POLICE.—There were four cases—all hard ones—before the Mayor, yesterday morning. To the heinous offence of vagrancy, they had each superadded the atrocious crime of drunkenness. The Mayor gave two of them certificates for 24 hours, one for 5 days, and one for 20 days.

A RUN OFF.—A horse attached to a milk wagan, ran off up Fourth street, yesterday. No one hurt, but the street was vacated fast.

BURGLARY—A FEMALE BURGLAR.—The house of Mr. Wm. Harry, on Front street, was broken open on Monday night, by a black woman, by the name of Johnson. Several articles of clothing and provisions were taken. Information was lodged with the Police, early yesterday morning, and by 10 o'clock, the woman was in custody and the stolen articles recovered. She was arrested at the house of another black woman, living in Dougherty's row, who was also taken to the Mayor's office.

THE WOUNDED MAN.—The Mr. Cunningham who was stabbed at a tavern in Allegheny, last week, we are glad to learn, is recovering. He was cut in seven places.

WE heard yesterday morning that the man Ivory who broke his leg on Wood street, a short time since, and was afterwards conveyed to the Hospital, is now considered to be in a very dangerous state. Indeed his life is despaired of.

ACCIDENT.—A boy, about 12 years of age, fell off the Canal Bridge, above the Bayardstown Bridge, yesterday morning, and broke his arm. A German physician was in attendance.

ALLEGHENY POLICE.—There was one offender before Mayor Nixon yesterday morning. He had been cutting up all sorts of shines in the Diamond, and was taken to the watch house. He paid his fine.

IT is a mistake to suppose that the fire on Sunday night was the work of an incendiary. That such was not the case has been clearly ascertained.

"THANKS."—The card of our friend Cassidy returning his thanks to the firemen for their exertions in saving his house on Sunday night, was inadvertantly omitted yesterday morning. The firemen, themselves, will not be unmindful of Mr. C.'s liberality in proffering refreshments on the occasion.

The British Colonies.

The British Colonies in North America are as follows:—

Newfoundland,	25,000	sq. miles.
Prince Edward's Island,	2,200	"
Nova Scotia (with C. Breton)	17,500	"
New Brunswick,	24,000	"
Lower Canada,	260,000	"
Upper "	300,000	"
Total,	628,700	"

Upper and Lower Canada were united some time ago into a province, and are now governed by one Governor, an Executive Council and a Provincial Parliament. About one-tenth of the territory has been surveyed and allotted. Prince Edward's Island, Nova Scotia, and New Brunswick, are each governed by a Colonial Assembly, an Executive Council, and a Lieutenant Governor. In Newfoundland one third of the members of the Assembly are elected by the Governor. The people have no voice in the selection of a Governor in any of the Colonies, and important laws passed by the Assemblies may be annulled by the British Government.

The "Governor General" of Canada enjoys this title as the commander-in-chief of the forces in British North America. The Governors of the other colonies are called "Lieutenant Governors." These posts are looked up to as stepping stones to distinction at home. A governor whose administration ensures the tranquility of a British Province for ten or fifteen years is allowed to return to England, and a large pension for life or an estate rewards his faithfulness in maintaining the integrity of the empire. Serious disappointments to the nobility on this respect followed the American Revolution, as most of the Colonial governors in returning home failed to receive expected honors.

River Matters.

THE RIVER.—Last evening the river was at a stand, with three and a half feet water in the channel. The only boats running are the Picaway and Laura, between this place and Beaver. The weather still continues very mild.

☞ The fine Brownsville packet, Consul, Capt. A. G. Mason, having been docked and thoroughly repaired, will leave for Brownsville, on the opening of navigation.

☞ There have been no arrivals from below; the Bertrand and Hibernia have arrived from above. The Hibernia left Cincinnati on Tuesday evening and arrived here on Thursday morning. She did not break a bucket on her way down.

The weather has been comparatively mild for the last three or four days, and it yet continues mild, though it must moderate before it can act successfully on the ice in the river. Owing to the suspension of navigation, our market has been dull, and very few sales have been made.—Louisville Journal, Dec. 27.

LOSS OF THE STEAMBOAT FLORENCE.—The steamboat Florence, which left Albany, Georgia, on the 17th inst., for Apalachicola, laden with 345 bales of Cotton, stove in her larboard quarter against a jutting rock on the bank of Flint river and sank in a few minutes. Boat a total loss, owned by Col. Floyd, of Apalachicola; not insured; deck load saved with but little injury; cargo under deck supposed to be a total loss; insured.

The Nasville Whig, of Tuesday, reports about 6 feet water on Harpeth Shoals in the Cumberland. The same paper states that the Ohio river is closed above Smithland.

The Memphis Eagle, of the 13th, reports the Mississippi to have risen 5 feet at that place, and still rising.

☞ The Louisville Journal of the 27th says:

"The weather yesterday was pleasant, but not warm enough to produce a thaw The thermometer at noon, stood at 30° above zero.

There is but little ice floating in the river. The Hibernia left Cincinnati on Tuesday evening, and arrived near this city on Thursday. It is not probable, however, that another boat will be able to come down until there is a change in the weather.

The Corydon (Indiana) Gazette says that passengers report that the steamer Old Hickory laid up near Flint Island. The Alice Grey was at the mouth of Green River on Monday The Mountaineer was frozen up at Evansville.

The Mississippi was frozen over at St. Louis on Tuesday, and the ice was solid and safe for crossing.

The St. Louis New Era of the 28th says the cold has greatly moderated since day before yesterday. Since Sunday the wind has been light and pleasant from the south, the sun shining brightly during yesterday and day before.

There has, however, been but little thawing, and the ice on the river seems as sollid and safe for crossing as at the close of last week.

The river closed here on the 6th inst., a circumstance which has not occurred before for seven or eight years—and then, not so early in the winter.

If the present mild weather contiuves, it will probably weaken the ice; but unless there should be rain, the crossing will be good, even with these mild days and frosty nights for several days more.

CLICKENER'S SUGAR COATED VEGETABLE PILLS, for the cure of

Headache, Dyspepsia, Pains in the Back, Dropsy, Measles, Heartburn, Quinsy, Fits, Itchings of the Skin,
Giddiness, Scurvy, Inward weakness, Asthma, Salt Rheum, Worms, Whooping Cough, Colds, Liver Complaint,
Rheumatism, Small Pox, Palpitation of the Heart, Fevers of all kinds, Cholera Morbus, Erysipelas, Gout, Nervous Complaints, Piles, Jaundice, Rising in the Throat, Female complaints, Coughs, Consumption, Deafness, Gravel.

And a variety of other diseases arising from impurities of the blood, and obstructions in the organs of digestion.

Experience has proved that nearly every disease to which the human frame is subject originates from impurities of the Blood or Derangements of the Digestive Organs; and to secure Health we must remove those obstructions or restore blood to its natural state This important fact has long been familiar to the world; but our natural aversion to medicine in any shape has hitherto determined us, in many cases, to prefer the disease to its cure. Now, however, the objection is effectually removed by CLICKENER'S PURGATIVE PILLS, which being completely enveloped with a coating of pure white sugar (as distinct from the internal ingredients as a nut shell from the kernel) have no taste of medicine, but are as easily swallowed as bits of candy. Moreover they neither nauseate or gripe in the slightest degree. This is occasioned by the fact that they are compounded on scientific principles and based on an intimate acquaintance with the origin of disease and the actual structure of the human system which enables them to operate equally on all the diseased parts of the system. Thus, for example, if the Liver be affected, one ingredient will operate on that particular organ, and by cleansing it of that excess of bile it is constantly discharging into the stomach, restore it to its natural state. Another will operate on the blood, and remove those impurities which have already entered into its circulation; while a third will effectually expel from the system whatever impurities may have been discharged into the stomach through the instrumentality of the other ingredients. Hence, they strike at the root of Disease, remove all impure humors (the principal cause of disease) from the body; open the pores externally and internally; promote the insensible perspiration, separate all foreign and obnoxious particles from the Chyle, ensure a free and healthy action to the heart, lungs and liver, and thereby restore health, even when every other means have failed.

The entire truth of the above can be ascertained by the trial of a single box; and their virtues are so positive and certain in restoring health that the proprietor binds himself to return the money paid for them in all cases where they do not give universal satisfaction.

PRICE TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER BOX.

☞ Remember Dr. C. V. Clickener is the original inventor of Sugar Coated Pills, and that nothing of the sort was ever heard of until he introduced them in June, 1843 as will be seen by the following

Explosion of Steam Boilers.

EVANS' ALLOY SAFETY GUARD, and Evans' Metallic Expansion Safety Guard.—The subscriber respectfully informs the public that he has procured a Patent for his Metallic Expansion Safety Guard, and is now prepared to manufacture the same, as well as his well known Alloy Safety Guard, upon which he has also made an improvement.

Steam Boat owners and others can now make a choice of either of the two inventions, and procure them from the original inventor, without the expense or danger of litigation, which would certainly follow upon any infringement of his patents. He would respectfully invite the public to call at his office, and examine his inventions, which he will cheerfully explain by working models.

Thankful for past favors, he flatters himself that his long and unremitted exertions to the subject of preventing explosions will ensure him a continuance of public patronage.

C. EVANS.

FOR SAFETY

Travelers should select a Boat provided with Evans' Safety Guards, for preventing explosions of steam boilers. It would be well for the traveling community to bear in mind that their security depends entirely upon their own encouragement of boats that have or may be at the expense of procuring the above apparatus. And that every individual making such selection is contributing towards a general introduction of an invention admitted by all men who understand the principles of the Steam Engine, to be a sure preventative against those dreadful disasters. This invention has been applied to upwards of 100 steamers, and travelers are cautioned against being deceived by men representing their boats as having Safety Guards, when they are not so secured against explosions. Examine the show bills and advertisements for correct information.

Light is Come.

NEW SPERM, LARD AND PINE OIL LAMP STORE.—The subscribers having opened a store, No. 8 St. Clair street, (West side) for the sale of Lamps, Oils, etc., respectfully invite the attention of the inhabitants of Pittsburgh, Allegheny, and the surrounding country generally, to their stock of Lamps, before purchasing elsewhere.—Our arrangements with the manufacturer are such that we can safely say we are prepared to light, in the most brilliant and economical manner, steamboats, Hotels, Public Halls, Churches, stores, shops, Parlors, Bridges and streets, as well as the "more dark and benighted corners," or any place where brilliancy, neatness and strict economy is desired. Among our means for letting our "light so shine," may be found the following Lamps for burning lard, lard oil and sperm oil, viz:

Hanging Lamps and Chandeliers, (2 to 4 branch) for lighting stores, Public Halls, Churches, Hotels and steamboats.

Stand and Centre Table Lamps, (various patterns and prices.)

Reading and Work Lamps.

Side and Wall Lamps, Glass and Tin Hand Lamps, &c.

The above are mostly Dyott's Patent Lamps, with double shelled fountain, and otherwise an improvement upon any other lamp now in use, which can be perceived at once by examination. Also, glass trimmings for lamps, such as globes, chimneys, wicks, &c.

LAST, THOUGH NOT LEAST!

Dyott's Patent Pine Oil Lamps, such as Hanging Lamps (glass fronts, with or without drops) Street Lamps, for lighting streets and bridges.

As we cannot describe the various patterns, we invite the public to examine them. We affirm that in brilliancy, cleanliness and economy, no light now in use will bear comparison with these Lamps, and Pine Oil. They are as safe to use as sperm or Lard Oil. Although some are endeavoring to identify this article with the old camphine and spirit gas, (by the use of which accidents have occurred) we assert to be another and different article, and that no accidents have occurred, during the extensive use of this article in Philadelphia for four years.

These Lamps will produce as much light with as much neatness and more brilliancy, and 25 per cent. less than any other light now in use, not excepting Gas.

If any one doubts statements we have or may hereafter make, we would say, we have commenced our business in Pittsburgh, intending to make it permanent, and knowing the merits of the article we offer the public, we are willing to hold ourselves accountable at all times for our statements, and are willing to put to test our Lamp—dollar and cents—testing economy—and the public deciding on the neatness and brilliancy of the light.

We have many testimonials and recommendations from Philadelphia and elsewhere, but the following may suffice for the present:

This is to certify that I have purchased of M. B. Dyott a sufficient number of his Patent Pine Oil Lamps to light the Universalist Church of Philadelphia, and have used them in said Church about two years. I have found them to give perfect satisfaction. The light produced by them is the most brilliant that I have ever seen. They are so economical that the cost of the Lamps has been saved several times over; the lighting up of the church not costing half as much as it did before we procured them.

Respectfully, JOHN DESSALET,

Secretary of the above named Church.

PHILADELPHIA, July 8, 1845.

The undersigned having used for two years Dyott's Patent Pine Oil Lamps in his Hotel, the Bolivar House, can recommend them of the most brilliant light that can be produced by any article now in use. Before I commenced lighting my house with the Pine Oil, I was using Gas; but after a trial of the above Lamps, I was so much pleased with the light and convinced of their economy, that I had the Gas removed, and burn the Pine Oil in its place.

WM. CARELS,

Proprietor of Bolivar House, No. 295, Chesnut st.

PHILADELPHIA, July 8, 1845.

ALLEGHENY CITY, July 11, 1845.

This may certify that we, the undersigned, having used for some months, Dyott's Patent Pine oil Lamps, can with the fullest confidence recommend them, as producing the most brilliant and economical light we have ever seen.—They are simple in their structure, and we believe them as safe a light as can be produced from any other Lamp, and much cheaper than any other kind of oil.

Valuable Real Estate for Sale.

THE undersigned will dispose of the following valuable Real Estate, viz:—

THIRTY ACRES OF GROUND, having an extensive front on the South bank of the Monongahela, (our principal business river where all the steamers lie, and where the heavy business of the City is done,) being the West end of the Borough of Birmingham, laid out into 230 lots of 24 by 100 feet, for Residences, and 96 by 390 feet for Manufactories fronting on 50 feet streets, and extending back to 20 feet alleys.

TEN ACRES similarly situated and laid out, adjoining the East end of Birmingham.

THIRTY ACRES OF COAL HILL LOTS, running from near the Bridge toward Birmingham, fronting on the two Turnpikes.

These are well known as the most advantageous locations about Pittsburgh, or in the world, for Manufacturing, inexhaustible mines of Coal of the richest and best quality, at hand, and furnished much cheaper than any other place about the City, and being nearly opposite the City Steamboat landing.

For Residences, also, there are no more beautiful, healthy, and convenient locations for those engaged in business in the City; but a few minutes ride or walk from the beautiful new Wire Suspension Bridge; some of the sites commanding fine views of the two Cities, three rivers and surrounding country.

We would prefer to selling, that Capitalists would join us in the erection of manufactories and other improvements. There is a stratum of Coal beneath the surface of 12 to 15 feet in thickness. A large body of the ground also is above the common level, and valuable for making Brick. It being a portion of an undivided estate for the past forty years, has thus been kept out of the market. Could the yearly applications to purchase have been accepted, it would long since have all been sold and compactly built up. It will be sold at less than other property as near the City in other directions, (and we particularly invite those interested to compare the prices,) notwithstanding its superior advantages, and must rapidly increase in value beyond other property, as every one can see from its great resources and advantageous location, presenting an object of the most certain and lucrative investment; for manufacturing the most advantageous, and for residences the most desirable, all of which is more fully set forth and confirmed, as well as other general information in regard to it and our city, in a pamphlet issued by us, and to be had of Booksellers in this and Eastern cities. If not disposed of previously, it will be sold either in whole or in part of either one of the plots, on Monday, the 25th day of May next, at 10 o'clock, A. M. Terms moderate.

Autumn's Warning.

I HAVE come, I have come, to lay bare the green trees
And to sweep through the fields with my turbulent breeze;
I have come to strip hedges while rushing along,
And to silence the note of the warbler's song.
I have come with my mist and my cold falling dew,
To tell you that winter will soon be in view.
I have come to give warning that all ought to wear
The new style of GUMS that excludes the damp air.

I mention these articles because I know well,
That none in the city their beauty excel;
I'll venture to say that in all the trade round,
Such durable articles there ne'er can be found.
These GUMS, you will find, are sure to resist
The cold blowing breeze and the chill Autumn mist.

My breezes may blow and my vapors may fall,
But the mineralized GUM is sure to stand all.
You'll never have cause to regret what you've done,
In purchasing shoes made of Mineralized Gum.
Then take my advice, and wear the Gum shoes;
And remember, it is the true Autumn news.

Medical.

A Cure for Consumption.

SEVEN THOUSAND CASES of obstinate Pulmonary Complaints cured in one year. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, the great American remedy for complaints and affections of the respiratory organs.

We do not wish to traffic with the lives or health of the afflicted, and we sincerely pledge ourselves to make no assertion as to the virtues of this medicine, and to hold out no hopes to suffering humanity which facts will not warrant.

We ask the attention of the candid to the following considerations.

Nature, in every part of her works, has left indelible marks of adaptation and design.

The constitution of animals and vegetables of the torrid, is such as they could not endure the cold of the frigid zone, and vice versa.

In regard to disease and its cure, the adaptation is more or less striking.

The Moss of Iceland, the Wild Cherry and Pines of all Northern latitudes (and Dr. Wistar's Balsam is a compound and chemical extract from these,) have long been celebrated for complaints prevalent only in cold climates. Indeed, the most distinguished medical men have averred that nature furnishes in every country medicines for its peculiar diseases.

Consumption in its confirmed and incipient stages, coughs, asthma, croup, and liver complaint, form by far the most fatal class of diseases known to our land. Yet even these may be cured, by means of the simple, yet powerful remedies named above, and which are scattered by a beneficent Providence, wherever those maladies prevail.

WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY!

Will Miracles never cease! More evidence of its surpassing Health Restorative Virtues!!

☞ ☞ ☞ ☞ ☞ ☞ ☞ ☞ ☞

From Dr. Baker, Sringfield, Washington Co.
SPRINGFIELD, Ky., May 14, 1845.

Messrs. Sandford & Park—Gent.: I take this opportunity of informing you of a most remarkable cure performed upon me by the use of Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry.

In the year 1840 I was taken with an inflammation of the bowels, which I labored under for six weeks, when I gradually recovered. In the fall of 1831 I was attacked with a severe chill, which seated itself upon my lungs; and for the space of three years I was confined to my bed. I tried all kinds of medicines, and every variety of medical aid without benefit, and thus I wearied along until the winter of 1844, until I heard of "Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry."

My friends persuaded me to give it a trial, though I had given up all hopes of recovery and had prepared myself for the change of another world. Through their solicitations I was induced to make use of the genuine Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry. The effect was truly astonishing. After five years of affliction, pain and suffering; and after having spent four or five hundred dollars to no purpose, and the best and most respectable physicians had proved unavailing, I was soon restored to entire health by the blessing of God and the use of Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry.

I am now enjoying good health, and such is my altered appearance that I am no longer known when I meet my former acquaintances.

I have gained rapidly in weight, and my flesh is firm and solid. I can now eat as much as any person, and my food seems to agree with me. I have eaten more during the last six months than I had eaten five years before.

Considering my case almost a miracle, I deem it necessary for the good of the afflicted, and a duty I owe to the proprietors and my fellow men (who should know where relief may be had) to make this statement public.

May the blessings of God rest upon the proprietors of so valuable a medicine as Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry.

Yours, respectfully, WM. H. BAKER.

☞ The following letter from Dr. Ritchey, of Franklin, Ind., who stands high in his profession, and ranks among the first politicians of the State, shall speak for itself in commendation of the "Genuine Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry."

Franklin, Ind., April 14, 1845.

Messrs. Sandford & Park—I have but a few bottles of Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry remaining on hand of the last lot furnished me by you. I heretofore waited until I had sold out and had obtained the money for one lot before I ordered another. But such is the demand for the article that I do not wish to be without it, and am therefore led to anticipate a little. The money for the last lot shall be forthcoming by the time the lot is disposed of, which, from the sales I have made lately, I think will be but a short time. The effects of the Balsam are in many cases strikingly beneficial. ☞ It improves upon acquaintance more than any other Patent Medicine I have ever known. Almost all others fail upon trial, and not being able to bear the test of experience, soon sink into disuse. This, however, seems to be most highly valued by those who have tested its virtues, and experienced its healing efficacy in their own cases. Yours, very respectfully, JAMES RITCHEY.

☞ THOSE WHO COUNTERFEIT a good medicine for the purpose of adding a few dollars to their pockets, are far worse than the manufacturers of spurious coin. For while the latter only robs us of our property, the former take property and health and life away. Dr. Wistar's BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY is admitted by thousands of disinserested witnesses, to have effected the most extraordinary cures in cases of an asthmatic character ever before recorded in the history of medicine.

The young, and beautiful, the good, all speak forth its praise. It is now the favorite medicine in the most intelligent families of our country.

Such a high stand in public estimation has been achieved by its own merits alone. And so long as a discerning public are careful to get Wistar's BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY, and refuse with scorn counterfeits, and every other article proffered to them as a substitute, so long will cures—POSITIVE CURES—cheer the fireside of many a despairing family.

☞ The true and genuine "Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry," is sold at established agencies in all parts of the United States.

Sold in Cincinnati, on the corner of Fourth and Walnut streets, by SANDFORD & PARK,
Gen'l Agents for the Western States.

Also, sold wholesale and retail by L. Wilcox, and B. A. Fahnestock, Pittsburgh, Pa., and by appointed agents in every important Borough in Western Pennsylvania.

FOR the cure of coughs, colds, hoarseness, influenza, tickling sensation of the throat, whooping cough, &c., pronounced to be the pleasantest and most efficacious remedy now in use. Sellers' Imperial Cough Syrup has given relief to hundreds who have used it, and the proprietor is persuaded that it has the power to impart benefit that cannot be claimed for the cough mixtures in general use.

FIRE PROOF ROOFING.—The subscriber is now prepared to execute orders for Beacon's Patent Composition Fire Proof Roofing, at a cost considerably less than the ordinary Shingle Roofing, and warrant it for five years, a specimen of which can be seen at the corner of Front, at Mr. Varner's Hotel. This composition is far preferable to metalic roofing, as it is a non-conductor of heat—nothing in its composition that will corrode—of great durability—it will last as long as the walls of the building—and can be afforded for one half of the cost for any metalic used for the above purpose.

The article is superceding almost entirely every other method of roofing in some of the Eastern cities, and only wants to be known for its general adoption.

L. E. BACKUS.

A few testimonials of its merits are subjoined:—

NEWARK, N. J., May 16, 1845.

Some three or four years since we had the Zinc roofing taken off our building, and Mr. Bacon covered them with his Composition Roofing, which answered an excellent purpose for over two years, and until the buildings were destroyed by fire; at which time it was observed that they stood the fire extremely well, did not conduct it, and in fact did not consume as fast as the boards or planks upon which the Composition was laid.

Our buildings have been rebuilt within the last year, and they are entirely covered with the said Composition, although of great width and length, and forming together an area of rising 12,000 square feet, showing sufficiently, we think, the estimation we have of such roofing and our confidence therein. HEDENBURG & SON,
"Hedenbern's Works."

Office of the Mechanic's F. I. Co.,
NEWARK, N. J., May 17, 1845.

Since the fire in the Messrs. Hedenburg & Son's buildings, an alarming fire broke out of a large building adjacent to Mr. J. M. Quinby's factory buildings, under insurance by this Company, which were much exposed; one of them with the composition Roof, was in danger of being consumed in a few minutes, and the roof escaped injury, while many of its windows and some of its doors were destroyed.

From my observation and the opinion expressed either by persons who have taken pains to inform themselves with respect to Mr. Simeon Bacon, Jr.'s composition, I am convinced that it is equal, if not superior to zinc for roofing.

W. A. MYER, President.

To all whom it may concern, this is so certify that I have had one of Mr. Bacon's composition Roofs in use for two or three years past, and am well pleased with it. I tried it in the first place on one of my workshops, and after giving it a fair trial, I had the zinc roofs taken off of the rest of my factory, and this composition put on, and find it to answer much better, and I cordially recommend it to public favor. J. M. QUINBY.

NEWARK, May 12, 1845.

This is to certify that I have had one of Mr. Bacon's Composition Roofs on my shop for the last year, and, as far as my experience goes, would recommend it to general use. M. GOULD.

NEWARK, May 16, 1845.

Being well assured, upon particular enquiry, that Bacon's Composition Roofing is in all respects preferable to tin, we have adopted this method of covering our manufactories, Hope Buildings, No. 2, which are 125 by 30 feet.

Medical.

CONSUMPTIVES OF ALLEGHENY COUNTY, ARE YOUR LUNGS OR LIVER DISEASED?—If so, look at the thousands of certificates of the most respectable and influential individuals from all portions of the United States, in testimony of the palliative and curative effects of Dr. Duncan's Expectorant Remedy.

Ask those persons in your own community who have long been in the habit of using this medicine in their families, what are the beneficial results attending its use. We take the liberty of referring, in connection with this notice, to the few among the many in our own county, who are competent to testify in this matter, and only ask them to say in favor of this remedy, what they can say conscientiously, from their own knowledge.

The above is taken from the Ohio Patriot, of August 12, 1845. Any person wishing any further proof of the wonderful efficacy of Dr. Duncan's Expectorant Remedy, for the cure of colds, coughs, consumption and liver complaints, are requested to call on or address a line to any of those persons, who will at all times be willing to satisfy them of the powerful virtues of Dr. Duncan's Medicines.

Advice and treatment given in all classes of diseases particularly those of a chronic nature.

BRONCHITIS CURED.

DR. DUNCAN'S EXPECTORANT REMEDY ALWAYS CURES IF USED IN TIME.—Rev. James Watson, of the Methodist Society, in Philadelphia, was afflicted with this troublesome complaint for several years, which rendered him unable to attend to his ministerial duties as a preacher of the Gospel. His symptoms were a dry and painful cough with hoarseness, pain in the chest, side and breast, a sense of suffocation, so much so at times, that he could scarcely get his breath. His body and strength became reduced; countenance pale and sallow, showing all the symptoms of a speedy termination of his life; but fortunately, a lady, one of the members of his church, called to visit him while he lay prostrated upon his sick bed. Beholding his awful situation, she at once advised him to send for "Dr. Duncan's Expectorant Remedy," which he procured at the Philadelphia office, with faint hopes of ever recovering. He commenced using the medicine according to the directions. The effect was wonderful. The first week after using the medicine, the cough ceased; hoarseness disappeared. After using three bottles, his strength began to increase, which enabled him to go down stairs, and by the time he used eight bottles, he found himself a well person, and is now attending to his usual profession.

We, members of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Philadelphia, are well acquainted with Father Watson's afflictions, and can certify to the truth of the above.

☞ DR. DUNCAN'S EUROPEAN PANACEA, for the cure of Scrofula, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, pimples on the face and body, Tetter, Gravel, Gout, Rheumatism, Ulcers and Sores of every description, Syphilis, Scorbutic Affections, Weakness and Debility, Inflammation of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Obstructions and Weakness, and all diseases arising from a torpid condition of the glands, and depravity or impurity of the blood.

The history of this truly Great Medicine is too well known to those who have visited the capitals of England and France, within the last few years, to require any recommendation to them. But for the benefit of the "Invalids of America," it would be proper to say that it is the favorite remedy among the nobility throughout Europe. This Panacea is perhaps the happiest combination of medicinal agents ever made, embracing, as it does, the power of eradicating diseases by its unequalled effects in purifying the blood, renovating the fluids and removing obstructions from the whole glandular apparatus. This medicine goes to work slowly and silently, extending its influence to every organ, giving them vigor and activity, and finally putting the whole machinery of man into complete and healthy action.

A Cheap and Pleasant Remedy!

PRICE'S COMPOUND COUGH CANDY.—This Candy is composed of the extracts of Horehound, Boneset, Seneka, Sarsaparilla, Liverwort, Liquorice Root, Iceland Moss, and Wild Cherry Bark, all combined together in such proportions that makes a medicated compound of vegetable extracts, unrivalled for curing diseases of the Breast and Lungs. Thousands have been relieved by it, after other remedies have failed; and it is this fact that has induced many individuals to imitate it in appearance and sell their productions as a cough candy, which, from its noxious and injurious qualities, have had no other effect than prejudicing the public against the use of this truly medicated compound candy.

Persons suffering from coughs, colds, or hoarseness, will therefore be sure they get Price's Compound Cough Candy, and no other. nov 13-tf

Astonishing---Yet True!

THE TIME has arrived that Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, &c., can be cured—and without the aid of Calomel or any preparation of Mercury whatever. This is effected by Dr. G. S. VALLANDIGHAM'S Superior Health Restorative. This extraordinary remedy for Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Heartburn, and such other affections as arise from a disordered condition of the digestive organs—the popularity of which is daily increasing, has effected cures which have called forth the warmest praise from those who have been relieved, and excited the wonder and admiration of all around them.—The afflicted will please call, purchase and be restored to health. A word to the wise is sufficient. Delays are dangerous. Why need people pine away with disease, when health can be purchased at so cheap a rate.

The following certificate is from a most respectable citizen of Northern Ohio—a gentleman well known throughout the whole country.

NEW LISBON, Ohio, March 5, 1845.

I do hereby certify, that having for a long time labored under a severe attack of Liver Complaint, and having made use of many remedies without effect, I at length procured some of Dr. G. S. Vallandigham's "Superior Health Restorative," and by use of the same have been restored to health. It affords me pleasure thus to bear my testimony to the efficacy of this medicine in my own case. If others who are similarly afflicted will only make use of this remedy, I think they will never regret it.

COUGH BALSAM.—This preparation has proved itself to be of very great efficacy in the cure of obstinate coughs, colds, asthma, whooping cough, spitting of blood, and other pneumatic affections; and the proprietors feel warranted in recommending it as a safe and useful medicine, and are prepared to show certificates of indisputable authority, in testimony of its value. It is pleasant to the taste, and offered at so low a price as to place it within the reach of every person. There are perhaps but few cough preparations that will produce so decided an effect in so short a time. Price, 25 cents per vial.

Messrs. B. A. Fahnestock & Co.—Gentlemen: About a year since, I used a bottle of your cough balsam in my family, and was so highly pleased with it, that I have kept it in my house as a standard remedy for coughs and colds. This winter I have recommended it to a number of my neighbors, who have used it with decided benefit. I would recommend it with confidence as an excellent remedy for coughs. E. ESTEP.

HATHAWAY'S PATENT HOT AIR COOKING STOVES.—The subscriber having entered into the Stove business in Pittsburgh, respectfully informs the public that he intends carrying it on in its various branches at the warehouse, No. 124 WOOD STREET, above Fifth street, where he will be prepared to supply purchasers with any articles in his line. In addition to other Stoves which he will have on hand, he has obtained the right to manufacture and sell Hathaway's Patent Hot Air Cooking Stoves. This stove is pronounced superior to any other now in use in the United States; it is more durable in its construction, and better adapted to the use of baking, roasting and cooking, as it is heated very regularly by confining the air in the stove; and it is a great saving of fuel as well as labor. I will keep on hand a sufficient number to supply all demands, if possible; I have five different sizes, and will sell them on reasonable terms, according to the sizes. I have now in use upwards of fifty in and about this city; all put in use within six months. Being aware that the people of western Pennsylvania have been imposed upon by the introduction of new and highly recommended Stoves, which were badly constructed, and have soon failed and become useless, I therefore will grant to persons wishing to prove the Hot Air Stove, the privilege of using it a sufficient length of time to prove its superior quality before I ask them to purchase. Persons notifying me from a distance by letter, can have stoves put up at any time, as I have wagons to carry them out; I therefore invite Farmers and all persons to come and judge for themselves; also to try them and prove that it is to your advantage to have one. All orders will be promptly attended to by the subscriber.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

Miller's Mansion House, Sept. 19, 1844.

Mr. R. Donovan—Sir: I have in use one of Hathaway's Hot Air Cooking Stoves, which I got from you last spring. It affords me much pleasure to recommend it for its excellence. So far as my knowledge extends, I have no hesitation in saying it is the best now in use. I need not particularize its merits, but would advise all disposed to possess an article of the kind, to adopt the best method of satisfying themselves, that is, to try it: and I doubt not they will be satisfied. D. R. MILLER.

Washington Temperance House,
Pittsburgh, Sept. 19, 1844.

Mr. R. Donovan—Sir: I have had in use for five months one of Hathaway's Hot Air Cooking Stoves, and I have no hesitation in saying it is the best stove now in use. The various kinds of cooking it is calculated to do at the same time, and the small quantity of fuel required, makes it an object worthy the attention of all who desire a good stove. THOMAS VARNER.

☞ I embrace this opportunity to recommend the Hot Air Cooking Stoves; I have used the one you put up for me constantly all summer, and I must say it is a grand article; I believe it is superior to any other stove now in use in this city. The oven bakes well, and is large enough to bake four large loaves of bread at one time; it also cooks very speedy, and it requires very little coal. I think them woqthy the attention of all who wish a good stove: to such I would say, try them, and see what they are. [oct 7] MATTHEW PATRICK.
